

STREET SOPS

Wrapper Competition.

JUNE, 1937.

The following are the winners in District No. 2, Eastern Ontario.

Winners of Stearns' Bicycles.

Mr. Stanley C. Wane, 115 Dublin St. Peterborough.

Mr. W. J. McGrath, 224 Queen Street, Ottawa.

Winners of Gold Watches.

Mr. E. B. Elvidge, Cornwall.

Mr. Arthur Williams, 213 239, Perth.

Mr. John Williams, 404 Sherbrooke Street, Peterborough.

Mr. Charles Baxter, 207 Wellington Street, Ottawa.

Mr. Madeline Gaillet, 311 Nelson Street, Ottawa.

The above competition will be continued each month of 1937.

LEVER BROS. Limited, Toronto

A SAD FATALITY.

DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY IN HARWICH TOWNSHIP.

She Was Hunting a Shotgun When It Was Discharged—A Fatal Wound.

Death on the Deseronto-Napanee Road, Home at the Time but Her Grandfather in the House.

Chatham, Ont., July 28.—The farm of Mr. John McCallum, on the Harwich road, a few miles from this city, was the scene of a tragic affair on Saturday evening as a result of which, Alice, the eldest daughter of the household, met a shocking death, whether by accident or otherwise will probably never be known. The circumstances briefly are as follows:

A few days ago one of the boys of the family was shooting hawks with an old muzzle-loading shotgun. A charge was left in the gun by him, and the weapon placed in one of the rooms in the house. It seems that it was not the customary rule, and it is thought that the mother of the family that Alice was removing the gun to another room, and while doing so she passed the table standing by the outer door of the room, and against the table the lock of the gun caught and it was the trigger.

There were only Alice, her mother, and her grandfather at home at the time. The grandfather, who is 71 years of age, is quite feeble, and quite deaf, was in his kitchen. The mother was out in the garden some rods from the house. Alice had been with her a few minutes before, and had gone to the house to do some other work. The mother made a rapid dash for the gun, but at the time paid no attention to it, thinking it was in the direction of a neighbor's house, and supposing his boys were shooting.

After a few minutes she went towards the house, and to her horror, saw her daughter lying on the doorstep. On her approach Alice raised herself partly, and said, "Oh, mother, what have I done?"

The mother on reaching her found her daughter lying on the floor, and seeing her condition, she quickly seized her apron and attempted to smother the flames by smothering her; roused her aged father to her assistance, and did what she could to revive her dying child. She found no assistance, but no one was in sight. She ran to her neighbor's, Mr. Morris, as a last resort, and had a doctor summoned. Others came, but all that could be done could not save the young girl's life.

The gun was found lying on the table with the lock broken off. The carpet was torn at one place, as if the girl had been lying on it for some time when it discharged, while the unfortunate girl was thrown against the screen door, and fell partly on the floor and into the yard, where she was found by her mother trying to raise herself, and when no doubt for a time she was unconscious. The discharge of the gun lodged partly in her left arm, and the rest in her left leg.

The deceased young lady was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She had been ill a few weeks ago, but had appeared cheerful. Only a few minutes before the accident her grandfather says she spoke to him, and had just finished her ironing, which she had been doing after helping her mother with some work in the garden. Deceased was twenty-five years old. She attended the Chatham Collegiate Institute a few years ago for a short time.

Mr. Lantieri was summoned, and after examining, concluded an inquest was quite unnecessary. The funeral, conducted by Mr. F. H. O'Brien, took place this morning in this city to Maple Lake cemetery.

THE CRETANS ANGRY.

Some Plain Talk to the Admirals of the Fleet.

Cape, Island of Crete, July 26.—Dimitri Pasha, the special Turkish Commissioner, sent from Constantinople to mediate between the Mussulmans and the Christians of Crete, visited the admirals of the international fleet in the bay of Souda yesterday and returned his visit. In the eyes of the Christian inhabitants of the island, the fact that Dimitri Pasha was going to land is a blow to the prestige of the great powers, and these Cretans have already sent delegates to the League of Nations, commanding the combined foreign fleet, notifying him that they will decline to entertain proposals for autonomy so long as Dimitri Pasha or the Turkish troops remain in the island. Admiral Canaris replied that they must be prepared to accept a small Turkish garrison. This only elicited a storm of angry protests and a refusal to lay down their arms until the Turkish troops left the island.

Paris, July 26.—The Flaga predicts the early issuance of a Papal encyclical censuring the priests who, despite the warning of their hierarchy, continue to incite the workmen of France and other countries to demand their rights, forgetting meanwhile their own priestly duties.

Paris, July 26.—A special dispatch from Grenoble says that the body of young Sorrel, the daring Alpine climber, whose venturesome feats have attracted attention this summer, was found on the 15th to make the ascent of Mount Taillier, has been found at the bottom of a deep crevasse, with his neck broken. Mr. Sorrel was only 19 years of age. Evidently he had lost his way in the fog.

COLONIAL CONFERENCE

MATTERS LEFT PRETTY MUCH AS THEY WERE.

No Satisfactory Result to the Conference Between the Colonial Premiers and Mr. Chamberlain—The Pacific Cable Scheme Dropped.

Montreal, July 28.—The Star's cable from London says: "The Standard, which is a Government organ, publishes a summary of the proceedings of the conference which took place between the colonial premiers and Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies. The statement shows that the expressions of the views held by the conference were free and frank."

Mr. Chamberlain favored colonial representation in the House of Lords. On the trade question the Colonial Secretary stated that had been done to show the effect of colonial competition against the Mother Country in the colonial markets. Having done this, he would be delighted to receive a colonial proposal. As to the Pacific scheme, the Colonial Secretary said that the conference was not far from an agreement to be carried out with regard to the financial aid. As to the Pacific scheme, the conference was not far from an agreement to be carried out with regard to the financial aid.

However, it was thought desirable that the conference should be held in a more formal manner. Some of the Premier thought it premature to attempt to settle the existing relations. Sir Wilfrid Laurier urged the denunciation of the German and Belgian treaties, which obstructed preferential trade with England, and the other Premier supported him.

With regard to this, Mr. Chamberlain did not indicate the British Government's course, but the impression prevailed that the treaties would be denounced. "If it happens," says the statement in an awkward position.

A Paris dispatch says that in an interview with the existing relations, Sir Wilfrid Laurier reiterated his previous statements as to the reasons Canadians had for being attached to England. He declared that his Government, however, would do all in its power to develop the commercial relations with France, which are not now so very active. To attain this result, it would be necessary to encourage the existing Canadian-French treaty. The number of articles in this convention were not sufficient for France for Canada either.

The St. James' Gazette, commenting upon the Standard's account, says: "The result of the whole thing is that the Colonial Office and the Colonial Premier have decided to leave matters about as they are. There is no serious change in the situation of affairs."

Mr. Meriel del Val, the Papal delegate to Canada, reached England on the Campania. On the same ship was General Macleod, commander of the Canadian expedition, and his arrival in London. Mr. Meriel del Val called upon the Canadian High Commissioner, Sir Donald Macleod, and had a long conversation with him. It is said that the official announcement of Sir Donald's title having been made, the mother made a rapid dash for the gun, but at the time paid no attention to it, thinking it was in the direction of a neighbor's house, and supposing his boys were shooting.

After a few minutes she went towards the house, and to her horror, saw her daughter lying on the doorstep. On her approach Alice raised herself partly, and said, "Oh, mother, what have I done?"

The mother on reaching her found her daughter lying on the floor, and seeing her condition, she quickly seized her apron and attempted to smother the flames by smothering her; roused her aged father to her assistance, and did what she could to revive her dying child. She found no assistance, but no one was in sight. She ran to her neighbor's, Mr. Morris, as a last resort, and had a doctor summoned. Others came, but all that could be done could not save the young girl's life.

The gun was found lying on the table with the lock broken off. The carpet was torn at one place, as if the girl had been lying on it for some time when it discharged, while the unfortunate girl was thrown against the screen door, and fell partly on the floor and into the yard, where she was found by her mother trying to raise herself, and when no doubt for a time she was unconscious. The discharge of the gun lodged partly in her left arm, and the rest in her left leg.

The deceased young lady was highly esteemed by all who knew her. She had been ill a few weeks ago, but had appeared cheerful. Only a few minutes before the accident her grandfather says she spoke to him, and had just finished her ironing, which she had been doing after helping her mother with some work in the garden. Deceased was twenty-five years old. She attended the Chatham Collegiate Institute a few years ago for a short time.

Mr. Lantieri was summoned, and after examining, concluded an inquest was quite unnecessary. The funeral, conducted by Mr. F. H. O'Brien, took place this morning in this city to Maple Lake cemetery.

THE CRETANS ANGRY.

Some Plain Talk to the Admirals of the Fleet.

Cape, Island of Crete, July 26.—Dimitri Pasha, the special Turkish Commissioner, sent from Constantinople to mediate between the Mussulmans and the Christians of Crete, visited the admirals of the international fleet in the bay of Souda yesterday and returned his visit. In the eyes of the Christian inhabitants of the island, the fact that Dimitri Pasha was going to land is a blow to the prestige of the great powers, and these Cretans have already sent delegates to the League of Nations, commanding the combined foreign fleet, notifying him that they will decline to entertain proposals for autonomy so long as Dimitri Pasha or the Turkish troops remain in the island. Admiral Canaris replied that they must be prepared to accept a small Turkish garrison. This only elicited a storm of angry protests and a refusal to lay down their arms until the Turkish troops left the island.

Paris, July 26.—The Flaga predicts the early issuance of a Papal encyclical censuring the priests who, despite the warning of their hierarchy, continue to incite the workmen of France and other countries to demand their rights, forgetting meanwhile their own priestly duties.

Paris, July 26.—A special dispatch from Grenoble says that the body of young Sorrel, the daring Alpine climber, whose venturesome feats have attracted attention this summer, was found on the 15th to make the ascent of Mount Taillier, has been found at the bottom of a deep crevasse, with his neck broken. Mr. Sorrel was only 19 years of age. Evidently he had lost his way in the fog.

Mr. Lantieri was summoned, and after examining, concluded an inquest was quite unnecessary. The funeral, conducted by Mr. F. H. O'Brien, took place this morning in this city to Maple Lake cemetery.

THE CRETANS ANGRY.

Some Plain Talk to the Admirals of the Fleet.

Cape, Island of Crete, July 26.—Dimitri Pasha, the special Turkish Commissioner, sent from Constantinople to mediate between the Mussulmans and the Christians of Crete, visited the admirals of the international fleet in the bay of Souda yesterday and returned his visit. In the eyes of the Christian inhabitants of the island, the fact that Dimitri Pasha was going to land is a blow to the prestige of the great powers, and these Cretans have already sent delegates to the League of Nations, commanding the combined foreign fleet, notifying him that they will decline to entertain proposals for autonomy so long as Dimitri Pasha or the Turkish troops remain in the island. Admiral Canaris replied that they must be prepared to accept a small Turkish garrison. This only elicited a storm of angry protests and a refusal to lay down their arms until the Turkish troops left the island.

Paris, July 26.—The Flaga predicts the early issuance of a Papal encyclical censuring the priests who, despite the warning of their hierarchy, continue to incite the workmen of France and other countries to demand their rights, forgetting meanwhile their own priestly duties.

Paris, July 26.—A special dispatch from Grenoble says that the body of young Sorrel, the daring Alpine climber, whose venturesome feats have attracted attention this summer, was found on the 15th to make the ascent of Mount Taillier, has been found at the bottom of a deep crevasse, with his neck broken. Mr. Sorrel was only 19 years of age. Evidently he had lost his way in the fog.

Mr. Lantieri was summoned, and after examining, concluded an inquest was quite unnecessary. The funeral, conducted by Mr. F. H. O'Brien, took place this morning in this city to Maple Lake cemetery.

THE CRETANS ANGRY.

Some Plain Talk to the Admirals of the Fleet.

Cape, Island of Crete, July 26.—Dimitri Pasha, the special Turkish Commissioner, sent from Constantinople to mediate between the Mussulmans and the Christians of Crete, visited the admirals of the international fleet in the bay of Souda yesterday and returned his visit. In the eyes of the Christian inhabitants of the island, the fact that Dimitri Pasha was going to land is a blow to the prestige of the great powers, and these Cretans have already sent delegates to the League of Nations, commanding the combined foreign fleet, notifying him that they will decline to entertain proposals for autonomy so long as Dimitri Pasha or the Turkish troops remain in the island. Admiral Canaris replied that they must be prepared to accept a small Turkish garrison. This only elicited a storm of angry protests and a refusal to lay down their arms until the Turkish troops left the island.

Paris, July 26.—The Flaga predicts the early issuance of a Papal encyclical censuring the priests who, despite the warning of their hierarchy, continue to incite the workmen of France and other countries to demand their rights, forgetting meanwhile their own priestly duties.

Paris, July 26.—A special dispatch from Grenoble says that the body of young Sorrel, the daring Alpine climber, whose venturesome feats have attracted attention this summer, was found on the 15th to make the ascent of Mount Taillier, has been found at the bottom of a deep crevasse, with his neck broken. Mr. Sorrel was only 19 years of age. Evidently he had lost his way in the fog.

Mr. Lantieri was summoned, and after examining, concluded an inquest was quite unnecessary. The funeral, conducted by Mr. F. H. O'Brien, took place this morning in this city to Maple Lake cemetery.

THE CRETANS ANGRY.

Some Plain Talk to the Admirals of the Fleet.

Cape, Island of Crete, July 26.—Dimitri Pasha, the special Turkish Commissioner, sent from Constantinople to mediate between the Mussulmans and the Christians of Crete, visited the admirals of the international fleet in the bay of Souda yesterday and returned his visit. In the eyes of the Christian inhabitants of the island, the fact that Dimitri Pasha was going to land is a blow to the prestige of the great powers, and these Cretans have already sent delegates to the League of Nations, commanding the combined foreign fleet, notifying him that they will decline to entertain proposals for autonomy so long as Dimitri Pasha or the Turkish troops remain in the island. Admiral Canaris replied that they must be prepared to accept a small Turkish garrison. This only elicited a storm of angry protests and a refusal to lay down their arms until the Turkish troops left the island.

Paris, July 26.—The Flaga predicts the early issuance of a Papal encyclical censuring the priests who, despite the warning of their hierarchy, continue to incite the workmen of France and other countries to demand their rights, forgetting meanwhile their own priestly duties.

Paris, July 26.—A special dispatch from Grenoble says that the body of young Sorrel, the daring Alpine climber, whose venturesome feats have attracted attention this summer, was found on the 15th to make the ascent of Mount Taillier, has been found at the bottom of a deep crevasse, with his neck broken. Mr. Sorrel was only 19 years of age. Evidently he had lost his way in the fog.

Mr. Lantieri was summoned, and after examining, concluded an inquest was quite unnecessary. The funeral, conducted by Mr. F. H. O'Brien, took place this morning in this city to Maple Lake cemetery.

THE CRETANS ANGRY.

Some Plain Talk to the Admirals of the Fleet.

Cape, Island of Crete, July 26.—Dimitri Pasha, the special Turkish Commissioner, sent from Constantinople to mediate between the Mussulmans and the Christians of Crete, visited the admirals of the international fleet in the bay of Souda yesterday and returned his visit. In the eyes of the Christian inhabitants of the island, the fact that Dimitri Pasha was going to land is a blow to the prestige of the great powers, and these Cretans have already sent delegates to the League of Nations, commanding the combined foreign fleet, notifying him that they will decline to entertain proposals for autonomy so long as Dimitri Pasha or the Turkish troops remain in the island. Admiral Canaris replied that they must be prepared to accept a small Turkish garrison. This only elicited a storm of angry protests and a refusal to lay down their arms until the Turkish troops left the island.

Paris, July 26.—The Flaga predicts the early issuance of a Papal encyclical censuring the priests who, despite the warning of their hierarchy, continue to incite the workmen of France and other countries to demand their rights, forgetting meanwhile their own priestly duties.

Paris, July 26.—A special dispatch from Grenoble says that the body of young Sorrel, the daring Alpine climber, whose venturesome feats have attracted attention this summer, was found on the 15th to make the ascent of Mount Taillier, has been found at the bottom of a deep crevasse, with his neck broken. Mr. Sorrel was only 19 years of age. Evidently he had lost his way in the fog.

Mr. Lantieri was summoned, and after examining, concluded an inquest was quite unnecessary. The funeral, conducted by Mr. F. H. O'Brien, took place this morning in this city to Maple Lake cemetery.

CRUISING FOR A FLY SPEC.

THE AY OF QUINTE RAILWAY COMPANY.

TIME TABLE NO. 14.

RAILWAY STANDARD TIME. TAKING EFFECT APRIL 26, 1937.

covered all of that measure it	2.50
sent for a B.V.
institutions of surprise and increasing growth of the encouragement needed, and the creed.
along in the latter part of 1879
Dr. Carl, Erie Johnson, William W. M. D. Chaplin, who had been independent police arrive at
of the river with the schooner on driven of the river.
apply. Having no further use owner, Massena and DeLong to do a little discovering on and to eventually sell the
to the Government, the Local Trains between Deseronto and

United States. J. L. BOYES.

[illegible]

